Presence of Gas In Brazeau Mine Noted By Fireboss Minue

BY BOB SHAW
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Reporter
NORDEGG, Nov. 10.—Graydon Minue, fireboss at Brazeau Collieries' number three mine, told a coroner's jury today Monday that he had reported gas conditions and ventilation good because he found it "no worse than usual" and because he had been making out such reports for some time. He had noted the presence of gas, he said, but this was a regular condition.

The report referred to the morning of October 31 when an explosion killed 23 miners. He said that in his opinion ventilation in the section where the blast occurred was insufficient. The coroner, Dr. E. A. Brinkhouse, and a jury of six.

Independents To Meet Here November 22

All sections of the province are expected to be represented at the convention of exponents and adherents of the Independent political movement, to be held at the Macdonald hotel, commencing at 10 a.m. on Nov. 22. It was announced Monday by local officials. Attendance is expected to be about 100 of the delegates allotted various constituencies.

Delegates will discuss and decide upon the future status of the Independent movement. It was pointed out by officials that if the convention decides to establish a provincial organization, the next step will be to decide the form of the party which will take and whether it will include election of a provincial leader. Should a provincial leader be considered an essential part of the party, then selections would be made at a later date.

Independent members of the legislature are meeting next Saturday at Calgary to discuss arrangements for the convention. A tentative agenda will be drawn up. Expectations are that 15 members of the group will attend. Northern delegates are expected to leave Friday night.

It was stated Monday by Alfred Speckman, M.L.A. for Red Deer and chairman of a special committee called to organize the provincial convention, that practically all constituencies north and east of Edmonton are expected to be represented.

Graydon B. Minue, fire boss, said he examined the mine twice, three and seven a.m. on Oct. 31.

LEGION TAKES ACTION Ottawa's Asked For All Out War

Delegates from Edmonton and district Great War Veterans associations, representing an estimated 6,000 returned men, Sunday pledged unanimous support to the call issued by the Dominion executive of the Canadian Legion to the federal government to institute forthwith all necessary measures to place Canada on a "total war" footing.

The meeting, held Sunday afternoon at the Memorial hall, was under the chairmanship of Legions J. McLean, M.M., president of the Canadian Legion, and J. McLean, M.M., president of the Canadian Legion. The branch sponsored the meeting which was attended by delegates from the Canadian Legion, the Canadian Corps Association, the Army and Navy Veterans, the Imperial Veterans' Association, the Angloman Association, the Legion of Frontiersmen, and the Veterans' Volunteer Group. Delegates from numerous Canadian Legion branches assisted also.

More than 20 delegates and ex-servicemen attended the meeting. Low Answers Affairs, the speaker, also, along with the standing vote endorsing the Canadian Legion call to the federal government for a "total war" effort.

RECRUITING CALLS
Several delegates pointed to the lack of response to recruiting calls, adding that the army and navy system had been given every chance but had failed. One delegate said:

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt

Nov. 10. (AP)—Thousands of Axis troops destined for North Africa were believed today to have been aboard 10 Axis supply ships, all heavily laden, which were sunk Sunday by British warships in an attack on two Italian convoys off southern Italy.

It was the greatest single blow to the Italian merchant navy since last spring, when the Axis began sending large-scale reinforcements to North Africa.

The troops were believed bound to reinforce the western desert forces of Axis General Rommel, commander of Axis armies in North Africa.

The action was announced here today in a naval headquarters statement substantially the same as the admiralty communication shipped 10 Nov.

The attack occurred off the southern Italian port of Taranto and came just one day less than a year after another of the Royal Navy's successes which also was off Taranto—the aerial torpedoing of several Italian battleships.

BY HARRY L. PERCY
LONDON, Nov. 10. (RUP)—A British sea and air blitzing hit the Axis in the Mediterranean this weekend, as well as one destroying two Italian convoys and damaging another in what may be the curtain-raiser to an offensive to drive German and Italian forces from Libya.

The attack was led by the Royal Navy which pounded the two convoys in the central Mediterranean, sank nine of the 10 ships, as well as one destroyer, an escort which comprised 10,000 tons of food and supplies, and two of the powerful 10,000-ton, eight-inch gun Trento class.

The 10th merchant ship, a 10,000-ton tanker, was set afire from bow to stern.

The Italians today admitted the loss of two destroyers and damage to a third in the action.

It was the biggest British success of the war against Italian supply ships. The British suffered no loss whatever.

See Fog Play In Vegreville Death

R.C.M.P. the Vegreville detachment was Monday probing the "suspicious" death of Mrs. Annie Pook, whose body was found in a well on the Pook farm, 18 miles north of Vegreville near Norma, Saturday.

There were severe head wounds caused by some blunt instrument, either a club or an axe, on the body of the woman, Edmonton headquarters of the R.C.M.P. stated Monday.

The body was discovered after police had been called to investigate the disappearance of the aged woman, who had been away from the house for several days.

R.C.M.P. officers talked with Pook's husband, of Regina, and with the Pook family, who live on the farm, and started a search and found the body in the well.

Only quick action by Mr. Francis Pook, teacher at Big Springs school, saved ACI Gravel, Vancouver, badly injured when his Tiger Moth training plane crashed into a schoolyard at the Big Springs school, about 25 miles northwest of the city, at noon today.

The plane plunged completely after crashing with Flying Officer Robinson still in the cabin.

Sounds Warning

Premier Warns War May Soon Spread To Remainder Of Globe

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(CP)—Declaring bluntly that "we do not know whether the efforts of the United States to preserve peace in the Pacific will be successful," Prime Minister Churchill said today that "if the United States should become involved in war with Japan, the British declaration would follow within the hour."

Mr. Churchill also affirmed once more that there never can be any peace between Britain and the Nazi regime.

The war, Mr. Churchill warned, "may soon spread to the remaining fourth of the globe."

Speaking at the traditional Lord Mayor's luncheon at the Mansion House, Mr. Churchill said that "it would be rather dangerous" for Japan "to provoke gratuitously a struggle with the United States" in view, among other things, of the importance of steel in modern war and the difference in the two nations' steel production.

Ministers To Talk Tax Plan Premier Says

Cabinet discussions will commence immediately on the draft agreement between Dominion and provincial governments for the taking over by the Dominion of the entire income and corporation taxation fields, according to Premier William Abernethy, who was back at his office Monday following a two weeks' absence.

The agreement was received last week by Hon. John E. Lyle, provincial treasurer, and ministers have been studying it individually in the interval.

Asked regarding his impressions of the Winnipeg convention of the Manitoba Reformers' Association, which he was elected the first president of the Manitoba Reformers' Association of Canada, the premier declared that "the Winnipeg convention revealed serious interest in monetary reform in Canada. From all parts of Canada, the movement is being spread, and we are urging that something be done to save the economic system from chaos and collapse."

"The unanimity of opinion as to methods that should be adopted was most refreshing, and we hope to have a chance to mobilize."

"There was no desire nor intention to form a new party. The whole purpose was to give the people of Canada a chance to mobilize and express in a definite form their wishes regarding monetary reform, and to have a platform, knowing the will of the people, could take steps to have it implemented."

After attending the Winnipeg conference, the premier visited Moose Jaw, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Calgary and Calmar on his way home.

Roosevelt Speaks On Armistice Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will make a world-wide broadcast on Armistice Day from the Arlington National cemetery during American Legion ceremonies before the tomb of the unknown soldier. The broadcast is scheduled for 8 a.m. M.S.T., and is expected Mr. Roosevelt will speak for 30 minutes, and make a nationwide network and short-wave relay to the rest of the world.

Arrive Overseas

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(CP)—The Dominion office announced today that Canadian military and aircrew contingents from Newfoundland had arrived at a British port.

A free months later it leaped into the public eye again, participating in the British attack upon Norway. It had been mentioned in connection in the running battle in the North Atlantic in which the German fleet was being hunted.

The attack, commenced in 1938, first captured British imagination

Signs Of "Peace Offensive" Seen

Turning to the war in Europe, Mr. Churchill declared that "all the usual signs and symptoms already are manifest" that a "peace offensive" may come from Berlin, but "however long and hard the toll may be," Britain and the dominions "will never enter into any negotiations with Hitler or any party in Germany which represents the Nazi regime."

Mr. Churchill said he was taking the luncheon as "the occasion to say—as it is my duty to say—that should

Text of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech will be found on Page 13.

Lauds American Lease-Lend Bill

Of the lease-lend bill Mr. Churchill declared: "Never let us again hear the taunt that money is the ruling thought and power in the hearts and thoughts of American democracy. The lease-lend bill must be regarded without question as the most unselfish act in the whole of recorded history."

The prime minister stated that the Royal Air Force now "is at least equal in size and number, not to speak of quality, to German air power."

He pointed this out in citing the improvement in Britain's position in the last year.

"Now," he said, "a large part of the United States navy, as Col. Knox has told us, is constantly in action against the common foe," and Russia is aiding in the fight against Germany.

Denounces Executions By Germans

Mr. Churchill bitterly denounced Germany for executions in the occupied countries and declared:

"Even the arch criminal himself, the Nazi ogre Hitler, has been frightened by the volume of world indignation which his spectacular atrocities have excited."

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
DURHAM, N.C.—From many capitals heralded another week-end of Hitler's "crusade" against Soviet Russia, diverting attention momentarily from developments on the vast fighting front.

Interpreters by Joseph Stalin, giving Hitler a year at most before his conquest bubble bursts from internal pressure, a leading Roosevelt challenge proclaiming an "unlimited" American commitment to keep the world free, a Russian warning of continued hostility as a result of the Soviet Union's verbal barbs. The most significant items in this worldwide broadcast news, however, came from Berlin and London.

Thus the German people learned directly from Hitler's propaganda mouthpiece, Goebbels, that Nazi hope of swift and conclusive victory over other Russia or Britain is a vanished dream. They were

MEN IN BLUE CROWD EASTBOUND TRAINS

Mentor of Able Airmen Awarded Their Wings

Regular Contingents Of Training Plan Graduates Leaving For Overseas

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—(CP)—Men in air force blue crowd the trains leading to eastern Canadian ports as the schools of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan graduate increasing numbers of pilots, observers and wireless operators—air gunners for service overseas.

A little more than a year ago the first class trained under the plan received their wings at No. 1 Service Flying Training School, Camp Borden, shortly after the first classes of observers and wireless operator-air gunners received the single winged badge indicating proficiency in their duties.

Now, a year after the plan schools reached small-scale production, wing presentations are almost a daily occurrence somewhere in the nation-wide system of air training schools operated by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

As each school discharges its monthly quota of trainees, they find their way, after a brief examination here, to the trains leading to the Eastern Canadian ports where they take ship for the scenes of battle across the Atlantic.

OPERATE IN UNITS
Where 34 schools and units of the plan operated a year ago, 80 operate now. In the fall of 1939, when the war started, the Royal Canadian Air Force was stepping up its peace-time training program and in December of that year the governments of Australia and New Zealand, Great Britain and Canada joined in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan agreement.

The first of the network of schools called for by the plan opened at the end of April, 1940, schools operating now, with the number a year ago in brackets, are as follows:

- 58 Elementary flying training schools (12)
- 16 Service flying training schools (3)
- 10 Air observer schools (3)
- Eight bombing and gunnery schools (1)
- Four wireless schools (2)
- Two air navigation schools (1)
- 10 Initial training schools (3)
- Five Manning depots (2)
- And 11 miscellaneous units (1).

In addition to the schools operated under the plan an increasing number of purely British schools are establishing in Canada. This movement was just getting under way in the fall of 1941, and the fact of France made it desirable to move as much as possible of British air training activity to the continent of Europe. At first only advanced units came to Canada to occupy schools and airfields prepared for them by the R.C.A.F. Now British schools of all types are settling here.

STRENGTH OF 80,000
The air personnel engaged in the B.C.A.T.P. numbers more than 80,000 officers and men as compared with 22,000 a year ago. The figures include aircrew in training and instructional, mechanical and administrative staffs of the various schools. They do not include air force personnel of the home war establishment, Canadian Canada or Canadian overseas either. The figures include formations or with the Royal Air Force, graduates of the plan to date.

The number of trainees at any given time, the number finishing month by month and the number of recruits entering training are official secrets. A year ago when the first class received their wings at Camp Borden, Air Force authorities made no secret of the fact that it numbered 35.

SILENT ON NUMBERS
Now, however, with Canadian-trained aircrew a growing factor in the balance of air power in the war, the numbers are a matter of keen interest to the enemy and silence is the rule. Some indication of the volume is provided by the fact it has been found necessary to set up special embarkation depots to handle aircrew awaiting transport overseas.

Coincident with the training of aircrew men for fighting duties the training of staff and ground crew personnel goes on. That program upon which, in the first days of the plan, the whole scheme depended was expected to slacken off as the flying training schools came into operation with complete staffs.

The recent decision to staff the squadrons into which Canadian aircrew serving with the Royal Air Force are being organized, with Canadian ground crews, called for a continuation of the ground crew program, much of which is carried on as the technical training center at St. Thomas, Ont.

Col. Britton Asks "Dead March Day"

By Europe People

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(CP)—NBC today heard "Col. Britton" of the "V Army" of the occupied British countries a request that they observe Armistice Day as a "Dead March Day." On Nov. 11, he said, the people of the "V Army" should be busy in memory of the comrades and by walking slowly, slow down the Nazi war machine. He spoke from London over his radio.

Warning is caused by a lack of news and not from boredom.

Funny Business

"It's a competition—they'll all writing to the same girl!"

The population of Nevada increased from 91,000 in 1930 to 110,014 in 1940, according to census figures.

Executives For Various Trades Are Announced

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—(CP)—Appointment of 10 senior executives to administer under direction of the board, the textile and clothing industry of Canada, was announced Sunday night by the War-time Prices and Trade Board. All men will serve without remuneration.

F. B. Walls, of Montreal, director of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., and head of the Eaton enterprises in the province of Quebec, has been named co-ordinator of the textile and clothing administration. His deputy co-ordinator will be Walter P. Zeller, president of Zeller, Ltd., Montreal, and until recently executive assistant to the minister of national war services.

TEXTILES DIVISION
Three new administrations have been appointed for the primary textile division to supervise cotton, artificial silk and knit goods, and the authority of West Administrator C. Dick has been broadened.

John Gordon Dodd, of Montreal, vice-president and sales manager of the Pelton Manufacturing Co. Ltd., and sales manager and director of Dominion Textile Co. Ltd., has been named cotton administrator. David C. Dick of Cobourg, Ont., who has been administrator since September, 1939, will in future have supervision over wool fabrics as well as raw wool. Mr. Dick will also be administrator of the knit goods division.

WILL STRIKE BACK
"Mr. President Roosevelt has commanded his ships to stoil as soon as they are German ships. And I have commanded German ships, wherever they are American, not to shoot theretop but to defend themselves as they are at sea."

The German officer who does not defend himself will place before a court martial. "If, therefore, an American ship on the basis of the command of its president, shoots, then it will do so at its own danger. The German ship will defend itself and our torpedoes will strike."

In connection with the map which President Roosevelt and showed German designs on South America, Hitler branded it "a ridiculous farce."

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "South America is as far away from me as the moon."

Referring to the American peace-declaration that the Nazis plan to abolish all religions, he said, "It does not interest me what kinds of religion there are in the world and people's attitudes toward these religions."

WILLIE STATEMENT
Reply to a statement attributed to Wendell L. Willkie that Washington or Berlin was determined to be the world capital, Hitler said, Berlin does not want to be a world capital and Washington never will. Hitler claimed the Russians had suffered casualties totaling at least 8,000,000 men and that they had lost 3,600,000 Red army prisoners who had been captured. He placed Russian losses in equipment at 15,000 planes, more than 22,000 tanks and more than 27,000 guns.

Referring to a possible British offer to open a second front against Germany, Hitler declared: "If the English choose to undertake an offensive, whether it is in Norway, or on the German coast or in Holland, Belgium or France, we can only say: 'Step up, you will leave again faster than you came. We have left sufficient forces everywhere in order to be prepared at any time.'"

Turning to the Leningrad situation in the eastern front, Hitler declared the city "is surrounded and one will see it again and it will fall into our hands."

BAIKAN CAMPAIGN
Discussing the Balkan campaign and the need for freeing the German front, Hitler said that the Germans "must really think that the Russian army today because it has a thrust into us as early as 1940 and punctured it."

"We were definitely able to sell this problem in a few weeks and successfully to climax it with the capture of Crete and thereby to bring a barrier before the German assault."

"No Place For Slavery" Says Sordid Speaker

QUEBEC, Nov. 10.—(CP)—

Louis Ervin, head of the Social Credit movement in Quebec, province, said in an address here Sunday after "19 centuries of Christianity there is no more place for any kind of slavery" in the world.

"Exploitation of man by man should stop," said Mr. Ervin in the address made at an afternoon meeting of the Social Credit convention. "We should not change targets and say if we pray privately in the world we will pursue them everywhere, no matter where they hide behind."

"WILL ALWAYS PREVAIL"
"Our movement," he said, "has for a foundation, devotion, sacrifice and prayer and we are not afraid to say so if we pray privately in the diocese of Quebec and publicly elsewhere, we will always prevail."

Mr. Ervin said at the start of his address that the convention had dispensed with the religious part of the program which was to mark the opening of the gathering because of the statement made Friday by Cardinal Villeneuve, archbishop of Quebec.

The Cardinal forbade clergymen and members of religious orders to attend Social Credit meetings or lend support to the movement and warned laymen that those who affiliate themselves with Creditist are up to us at their own risk and expense.

"Speaking of the scheduled convention, the Cardinal said 'they put on their program a hymn to the Virgin, Our Lady of Canada, followed by the official consecration of the diocese to the Virgin, Queen of the Order. This need of Holy Water after the directives I gave concerning it is an insult, to say the least, against which I must protest. It is not possible for me to leave ordinary people with the impression that Social Credit is a confraternity of devotes.'"

Russian Aid
MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—(AP)—

Factory workers will give voluntary labor by spending spare time this week manufacturing goods suitable for sending to Russia. This effort is being made in response to an appeal for food for Russia launched throughout Australia.

The proof is that we eliminated from our program the religious part. If at Sherbrooke we had benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, it was not as when we opened the Tabernacle. A Social Credit congress was held in Sherbrooke last August.

Ernest Grigore, former mayor of Quebec and one of the heads of the movement, said that members of the Social Credit believed "we would improve politics by putting religion into them. We should show ourselves as Catholics in public as well as in private."

The Duchess of Windsor is suffering from a stomach ailment, it was said today, and probably will return to Baltimore within three months to determine whether an operation is necessary.

HOW ELDERLY WOMAN ESCAPED BACKACHE

Many people think that backache is a trouble that comes naturally with advancing years, but the woman of 71 proves that it is not. "I suffered for a long time from backache," she writes, "but put it down to my age (71). Hearing your announcement, I thought I would try Kruschen Salts. I have been taking it for some time and have found great relief. I thought you would like to know it has done me a world of good."—(Mrs.) E.L. # Dorothy Dix Says:

Dorothy Dix
Editorial

There is no problem connected with marriage which seems to be as large as the public mind is in the matter of sex. Correspondents are continually asking me: "What is the ideal age to marry?" What difference in age should there be between a husband and wife? Should a woman marry as early as a man much older than she? In the marriage of an old man to a young girl, is there any likelihood of happiness?

Of course, no one can answer these questions. I can only give you my opinion.

Speaking broadly, however, and with due appreciation that my guess may be wrong, I should say that the ideal time for a couple to marry, as nearly as it can be reduced to figures, is anywhere in the twenties for women and in the thirties for men.

This gives them time to be grown-up and for their characters to have jelled into the kind of men and women they are going to be, and yet catches them before their minds and habits have solidified into solid concrete that makes it impossible for them to adapt themselves to any one else.

Boys and girls who are immature when they marry are likely to experience the grand passion. Old maid and old bachelor consequently, their characters are on themselves. But men and women in their prime are capable of the love that lasts through all the ups and downs of matrimony.

The difference in age between a husband and wife does not matter unless it is too great. Any other way is life of no consequence. Age cannot be computed by the calendar. It is a matter of soul, of spirit, of temperament, and that is what counts for a quiet, sedate, thoughtful girl or a man 25 or 30 years older than she is, especially if he is one of the kind of men who is lovable and enthusiastic.

But this rule does not mean both ways. It is a disadvantage for a woman to marry a man who is much younger than she is. Perhaps this is because men are less adaptable than women are. Perhaps it is because they are more home-making and less willing to be friends companions. Perhaps it is because men demand more of the way of personal appearance of their wives than women do of their husbands. Perhaps it is because women are older at the same age than men.

Perhaps it is because old women cannot believe themselves so easily into believing that they can stir love in a youthful breast as men do. Anyway, such marriages never last successfully.

McCoy Health Service.
In health, the large intestine should be self-regulating and self-cleaning, and this is a function with the regularity of clockwork, without the individual having to worry in the slightest degree. When this important organ ceases to function, the result is the first sign of constipation.

Sluggish elimination is so prevalent that possibly 90 per cent of those reading this article suffer from it to some extent. And yet, a mild or average case of the trouble may be completely relieved within a month or a week, by the patient being willing to follow a few simple rules.

The causes which produce constipation are in no way mysterious. They are simple causes, either from wrong habits of living, or from a wrong selection of food. The patient has gotten into the habit of eating highly refined foods which do not provide the intestine with sufficient bulk. Lack of exercise is another common cause, producing weakness of the important muscles of the abdomen. Another cause is irregularity of habit induced when the patient becomes careless about attending to the important duty of elimination at a regular, definite time.

Once constipation has become established, a definite regimen must be undertaken in order to return the colon to its work efficiently. An important part of that regimen is the adoption of a diet which supplies enough bulk. The best way of doing this is to secure plenty of the cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables. In many cases it may be advisable to stuff temporarily on a diet of cooked vegetables such as corn, with the bread and meat. Those who find that fruit possesses laxative effect for them, may be well to eat fruit just before retiring at night, or they may introduce sliced fruits in the diet by using them with the dinner as dessert and taking them in the morning.

The patient with a flabby, relaxed colon is usually able to tolerate raw vegetables in salads with good effect, and may use a smaller salad at lunch, with benefit. Salads provide the laxative effect for them, may be well to eat fruit just before retiring at night, or they may introduce sliced fruits in the diet by using them with the dinner as dessert and taking them in the morning.

Sufficient attention must be given to strengthening the abdominal muscles through suitable exercises every day, just the timing up of these muscles will serve to improve the intestinal elimination to a remarkable degree. The adoption of

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER
The fears children express are so many and so varied that it would be impossible to draw a general solution to erase each out of them separately. What is important for a parent to discover is WHY a child has been afraid of some specific thing or a class of things, and then to use a dog, the loud noise of a train, a car or a vacuum cleaner.

Sometimes, if we are alert in investigating individual fear-reactions, we discover that the child is gaining some particular excitement by hanging onto a fear which may have been a honest one to begin with but has become secondary now. The real thing the child wants to gain by the expression of the fear is the attention of his parents, or of other adults. So he continues to maintain his fear.

It isn't likely that a child's so-called fears are indications of the child's fear of independence. The fear the child discovers she is called upon to act more and more like a girl. But the deeper, want to be a big girl. She likes being in the dark.

So she develops fears, fear of the dark and of being left alone, but her real fear is fear of being alone, which causes her to huddle close to other adults and be fondled and petted by them. Fear of doing new things, of whose success she feels uncertain.

Instead of grasping a hammer bravely and swinging a nail, she may be afraid of the hammer, or of any symbol of activity which leads her to that new life of independence and of self-reliance which is distasteful to her. So fears, any fear which prevent her being independent, as her of doing new things, of whose success she feels uncertain.

There are some natural fears which show themselves almost as a baby's birth. Fear of noise is a foremost one. Many other fears may be allied to this early fear of noise, for the sound of a strange dog appearing at the door, when it is a green figure and a plain ivory.

To make the cornice, start with a strip of lining 30 per cent longer than the window is wide. Make red casing and then face this lining with your heavy satin, slanting nearly along bottom and top edges.

To side draperies and glass curtains too, you can easily give a professional look. When this is the case, the parent may be able to end the fear by giving the child more confidence in the parent's love and protection in the home, and because of these, more courage to meet all kinds of new strange experiences in life.

If you wish a copy of our latest, "The Complete Book of Child Care," send a three-cent stamp, self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Elder in care of this newspaper.

Minute Make-Ups
Budget your makeup time. You can cut minutes off your makeup time by applying a crystal clear overcoat after the blush is on. It dries twice as rapidly and protects the polish until it hardens. The new polish shades are glorious, some soft, rosy-reds, some mysteriously dark and gleaming like rich fruit.

A better diet and the taking of regular exercise will be all that is needed in the mild cases. Following each relief, the patient feels better. Looks better, has more energy and works better.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 100 words. Address: Dr. C. H. Health Service, 1131 West 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This series of articles the writer is now advising the "V.V." system, in keeping with his policy to present anything new to his readers, the various details of this system are presented for their information, so that if and when they play against the system, they may have an adequate defense against it.

Personally, I have never favored artificial slam conventions. Although they are sometimes an advantage, they are used entirely too often and under the wrong circumstances.

The "V.V." slam convention is a combination of the four-five no trump and the Blackwood. A free bid of four no trump calls for varied responses, depending upon the agreed playing suit of the partnership.

When the agreed playing suit is clubs, regarding an ace, using the four-five no trump convention: Without an ace, five clubs; with one ace only, bid over-od of the suit of the ace (but if the ace is clubs, you must bid six clubs); one ace, five diamonds; two aces, five hearts; three aces, five spades; four aces, five no trump.

Now, in the "V.V." system, if your partner showed one ace and the four no trump bid then bid five no trump, he want definite information regarding your ace, and this is the way you give it to him.

If the agreed suit is diamonds, a bid of six clubs shows a minor suit ace, while a bid of six diamonds shows a major suit ace.

If the agreed suit is hearts, a plain suit name, address, and the name of booklet.

1940's Bombs Bring 1941 Boom In London's Night Life As Britons Enjoy New Relaxation

By PAUL MANNING

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The boom in London these days following German bombs to English anti-aircraft fire. The British capital is having a theatrical and night club boom the likes of which has not been seen since the hectic, escapist pre-war days of 1938, when every one went out at night to relax and get away from the "War of Nerves."

The entertainment gold rush started here in the middle of the summer, has yet to reach its climax. Meanwhile producers and night club proprietors are holding their breaths tensely, hoping there will be no repetition of last year's disastrous season.

1940 SEASON WAS BLITZED OUT

During the winter of 1940 there was virtually no real entertainment in the city of London.

Many attempts were made to keep shows running, but as December faded into the January of a new year, show after show folded. Either a 1,000-pound bomb made a theatre untenable, or else the people stayed home and the productions starved to death. The public, last winter, got the shortest measure of entertainment they have ever received.

The present boom is a result. No matter what opens, the play is assured of an enthusiastic audience both in London and in the provincial cities of England. Musical revues in London, like the current hits, "Rise Above It," "Up and Doing," "Lady Be-Love," "Fun and Games," "Black Vanities," and "Apple-Season" are all sold out at both performances each day. The afternoon matinee starts at 2:15, the evening performance at 8:15.

The Saville Theatre, where "City and Dances" starring Lucie Hemon, Blinn Hale, Cyril Birchard, Stanley Holloway, Patricia Burke and Carol Gibson and his band have long been paying, was badly hit by a bomb last spring. Now it is again open with the same cast doing business as usual.

It is not only the musical revues which are prospering. People are patronizing ballet, opera

Once more theatre alleys blossom out with "Stage Door Johnnies" as London's theatrical boom gathers momentum. But the traditional top-hatted, bouquet-bearing lads are gone—mostly replaced by husky, khaki-clad soldiers.

air concerts and art gallery exhibitions in a frenzied sort of way because they sense that it all will not last too long. "The Cherry Orchard" has been running for four weeks now at the New Theatre and has done an enormous business. They are planning to take it on a tour of the provinces soon, which is the first time any Russian play has ever toured outside London. There's a new combination musical revue and play which might make London theatrical history. Scheduled to open in November, it's titled "Get a Load of This" something to wonder about.

London's night clubs, slowed down but never quite completely blitzed out of existence, are getting into full swing again this season.

ing cast and the general plans being made, the production should be either the most sensational hit or most dismal flop ever to open in the British capital. Nothing in between.

Starring Vic Oliver and Celia Rippon, it is something of an all-American revue. Manning-Sherman, the American composer who wrote "A Nightingale Sang in Berkeley Square," is doing the music. But it is the book, and the man who has prepared the dialogue and plot, that make "Get a Load of This" something to wonder about.

BLOND AND THUNDER POSITIVELY RAMPAANT

James Hadley Chase writes the toughest dialogue in England. He's never been to the U.S., but his tough, American plots, staged against a backdrop of crime and gangs in St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and New York, have done English gaming.

His books, inexpensively priced, are a sellout wherever they hit the stands. It's not high class literature he writes, but it is box office and unlike any Hollywood gangster film, something horrific always happens to the heroine—repeatedly.

Liberalized sprinkled with hotbeds blondes and lots of abetting, his milder dialogue runs like this: "Moving softly. Haven't stepped behind and shot him through the head. The gun made a little hissing sound. Then Raven looked at the girl and raised his gun. She saw the little black hole of the barrel pointing at her, and she hid her face in her hands. The heavy 45 bullet smashed two of her fingers before it blew the top of her head off."

His titles, too, have punch. "The Dead Stay Dumb," "Twelve Chinks and a Woman," "Lady—Here's Your Wrench."

James Hadley Chase isn't as tough as his books. He's got a wispy mustache, a slight stoop when he walks and, with his glasses on, he looks like a college professor. They had him writing R.A.F. communiques for a while during the Battle of Britain but that didn't turn out well. He couldn't get out of the habit of spilling blood in every paragraph.

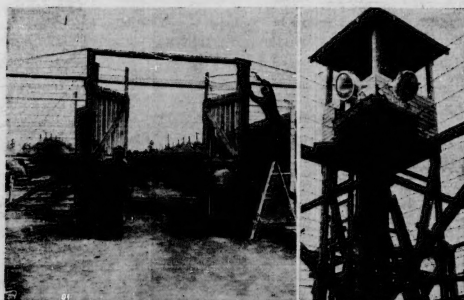

For his new play, they've remodelled the interior of the London Hippodrome into a replica of an American night club. Audiences will sit around what will be not only a stage but a floor where they can dance during intermissions to the down-beat of a colored Boogie-Woogie piano player. They are going to get a load of fast footing, murder, undraped blondes, American gangsters and bonny sans.

During the gang-war climax, the din is terrific. The producers hope there will be no realistic competition from German bombs to further upset any touchy audiences.

Six of the most distinguished and heroic flyers of the Royal Air Force are now in the United States as guests of Americans who acted as observers for Uncle Sam in Britain. They posed for this special photo above recently at the offices of the British Press Bureau in New York. Their visit will last six weeks. Left to right, first row, they are Front Wing Cmdr. John N. H. Whitworth, group training officer; Group Captain John N. Boothman, permanent winner of the Schneider cup for airplane racing; and Wing Cmdr. H. Idwal Edwards, first Australian pilot to win the Victoria Cross in the current war; back row, Rear-Wing Cmdr. Adolph Geyssert Maian who by July had downed 35 enemy planes; Group Captain Harry Broadhurst, former stunt flyer; and Wing Cmdr. Roland S. S. Tuck, 25-year-old ace who has destroyed 21 enemy planes to date.

U.S. Builds First Prison Camp Since World War

Imposing walls of barbed wire and a watch tower with powerful searchlights form this corner of the U.S. first prison camp since the world war, now nearing completion at Camp Upton, near Patchogue, Long Island. The camp will accommodate some 700 aliens within a 480,000 square foot stockade. They will be housed in winterized tents originally used by the first batch of soldiers inducted into the armed forces a year ago. The big stockade has double walls of barbed wire.

Russ Flying Ambulances

A flying ambulance of the Soviet army is shown poised for carry wounded back to base hospitals from clearing stations behind the fighting line. Loading this casualty into the plane are nurses of the Red Army. Stretchers slide into compartments built atop the wings.

Typical R.A.F. Trainee In U.S.

Typical of the 748 British aviation cadets who have just arrived at the Southeast Air Corps Training Centre at Montgomery, Alabama, is Londoner David Belman. Along with his pipe and tennis racket he carries a duffle bag, blanket and trench coat. He is wearing the gray flannel suit which was issued to him and the other British fledglings before they left for the United States.

Soviet Hero

Soviet officials credit Squadron Commander. Gastelo (above) with piloting his flaming plane into a concentration of enemy truck and tank cars. Scores of the trucks and cars exploded together with Gastelo's plane.

Attempt On Life

Sir Hugh M. Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to Turkey, reports an attempt on his life at the British embassy in Ankara. He was gravely wounded by Japanese aviator when in China in 1937.

Duke Inspects "The Rock"

His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester is shown (left), with Engineer Colonel Fordham as they emerged from one of the tunnels that run through the great fortress rock of Gibraltar. Many experts believe that if the German blitz is stalled for the winter in Russia, the lightning will strike at Gibraltar, Britain's key to the Mediterranean.

At British Relief Sale

Marcia Lucas admires a $5,000 platinum fox scarf, part of $50,000 worth of family treasures donated by American families, which will be sold by British War Relief Society in New York. Funds will aid British war victims.

Another Mrs. F.D.R. Project

The multitudinous interests of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt reach across the Atlantic to London, where a balloon barrage crew won first prize in a national allotment contest with these vegetables. Seeds were sent over by the President's wife and others.

Cambodian King

This is the first picture of Sihanouk, the new King of Cambodia. He is pictured standing ominously in the rain during the last rites for King Sisavang Monivong, former ruler of the kingdom of three million people. Most important resource of the little kingdom is its supply of tin. In the first stage of the present war France had intended that the colony be used as a huge arsenal. Now that it is more or less under Japanese influence.
